On January 15, 2025, I posted a link recommending 2 articles by Dr. N.W. J. Hazelton discussing the impact of the Surveying Revolution. Judging by over 1,000 “impressions” reported by LinkedIn, the posting achieved significant exposure. I am posting a follow-up link that builds on Hazelton’s articles and cites additional resources. As a heads up, that link also contains an additional link to a “time stamped” article. Without going into details or becoming political, the “time stamp” article reviews the status of current practice and acknowledges the possibility of significant changes in the future – e.g., using a 3D model for 3D data. My aspiration is that current professionals and spatial data users will have a voice in guiding those changes. <http://www.globalcogo.com/Building.pdf>.
